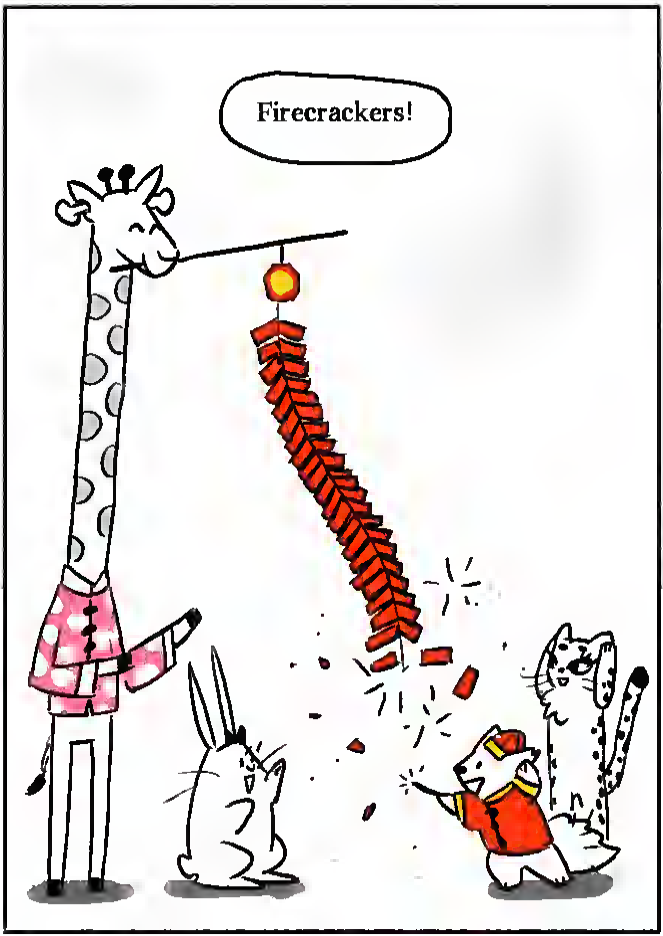
ROAR STREET JOURNAL

Lunar New Year Greetings

Happy lunar new year!

Tasty food and candies!



Firecrackers!

Lion dance!
Wait a minute, you said there were no lions in China!
Yes, but they were later introduced from other countries.

And ... getting red packets!
THIS is the most important part!
haha!
You'll be giving them out when you get married one day.

Older generations give out red packets to younger generations.

Parents give red packets to their children,

and married couples give to those who are single.

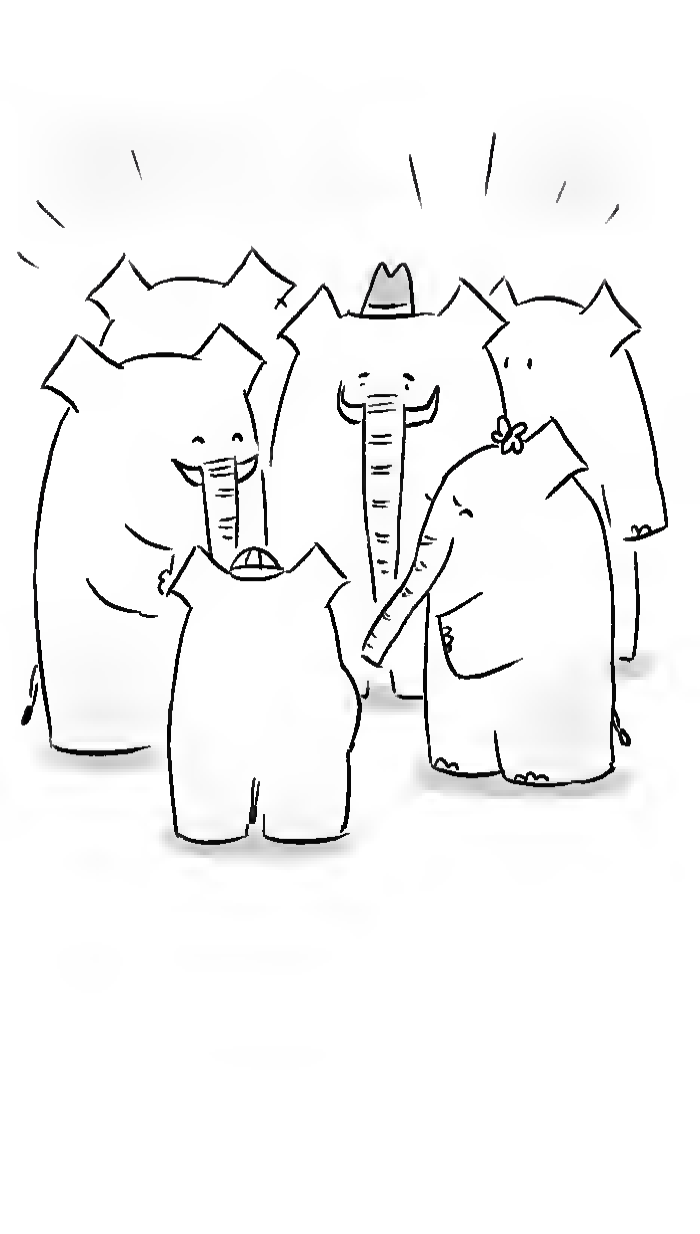
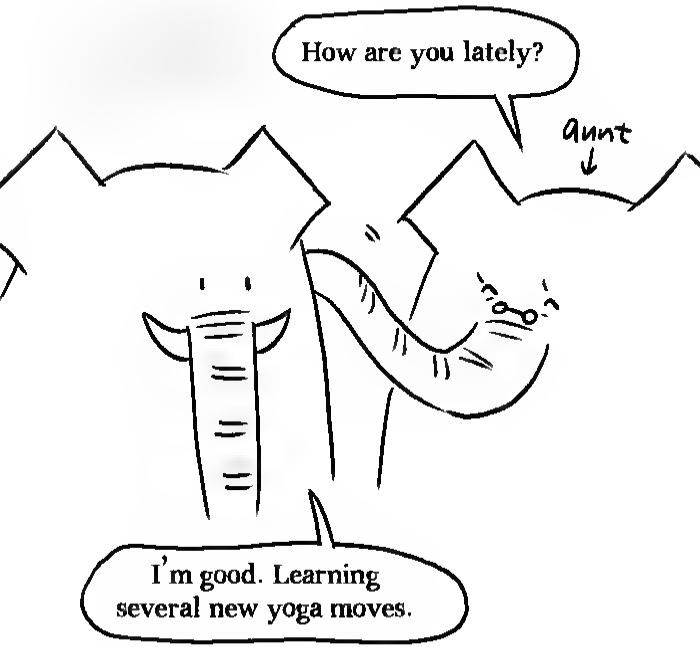
Friends and relatives will also gather at new year to catch up with one another.



After greeting and sending good wishes,

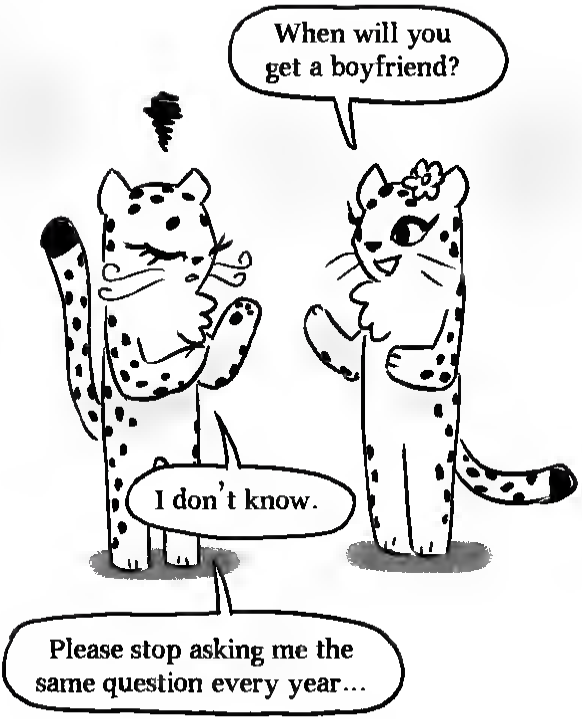
people will often ask about your life.



And it is always in a simlar pattern...

When you are single,

90 percent of the questions you get are...



When will you get a boyfriend?
I don't know.
Please stop asking me the same question every year...

When you have a boyfriend or girlfriend,

big chances of the questions you get are...

When you got married,

everyone will ask you...

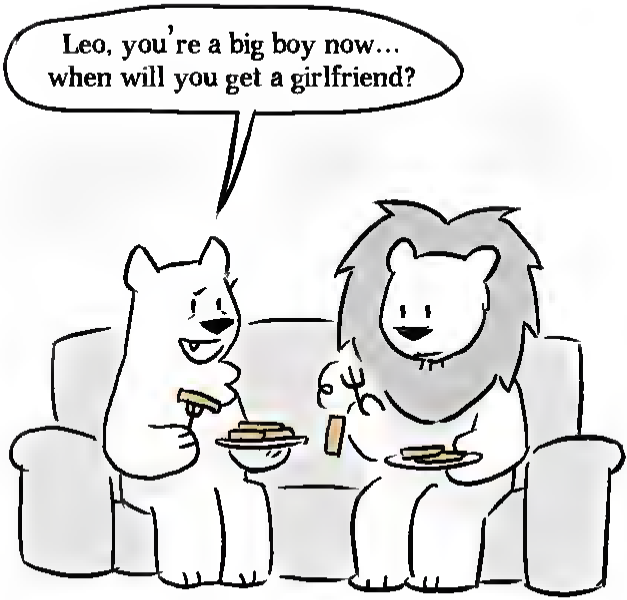
When will you two have children?
We haven't thought about it yet...
I want to play with baby kittens!

When you have children,

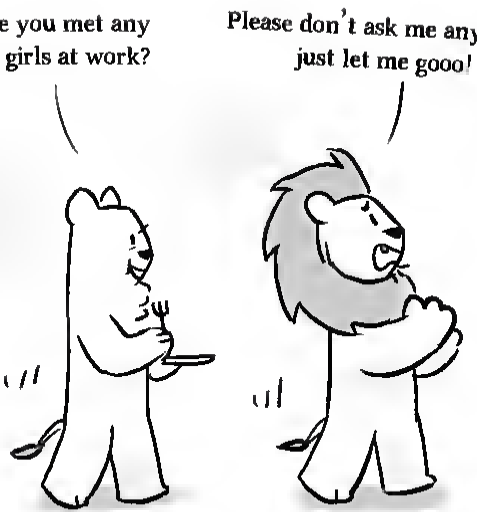
sometimes you still get questions such as...

When your children finally grow up,

the cycle repeats itself...



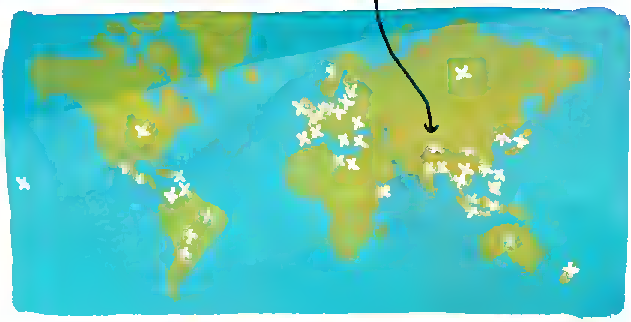
Leo, you're a big boy now...
when will you get a girlfriend?



ROAR STREET JOURNAL

Suman Singh
I am from Nepal and our national bird is lophophorus which is only found in Nepal

Readers from Nepal!



The national bird of Nepal is called the Himalayan Monal. The colorful bird "Kelvin" (which is actually a female) in the animation film "Up" is based upon the male Himalayan Monal!